CLASSMATES :

The following report is submitted to you in accordance with the vote of the class at the Commencement meeting in 1880, by which vote the system of triennial reports was abolished, and the quinquennial system will be hereafter followed, the next report to be published in 1889. The report this year is intended to be the record of the class for the period since the last report (June, 1880), and it has been my endeavor to make the record as complete as the answers sent me would allow, while to these answers I have added such other facts of interest as were within my knowledge, always striving to exercise a sound discretion and not to be over-zealous in the discharge of my duty, thereby offending the modesty of any one. The responses as a rule have been prompt and satisfactory, and for these I am duly grateful; some of you, who through indifference have not answered, may endorse the sentiment, "Me taedet moris hujus," which was the only reply received, naturally too late for publication, from one classmate; but all of you must realize that the record can only be complete through your co-operation. McCann is still missing, and after vain efforts to ascertain his present residence and occupation I have had to subside. Many of the temporary members, I am glad to say, retain an active interest in the class. If any of you desire copies of the old reports, of which this is practically a continuation, I will send them at once upon notice.

The condition of the Class Fund is very satisfactory, and your attention is asked to the detailed statements on the following pages concerning this fund, the income of which is now more than sufficient to meet the ordinary expenses of the class. You are also asked to consider whether this surplus should be used towards paying for extra class dinners. This matter will be brought up at the Commencement meeting.

Four of the regular members of the class: Clifford, Thomas, Ditson and Mitchell, have been taken from us during the past four years, their deaths all occurring in 1881. Obituary notices of them, prepared by intimate friends, are published in this report.

The list of marriages, and births of children, rapidly increases, and the ten years' showing is a favorable one. Seventy-eight of the regular members are known to have married, but the majority is still on the wrong side. The statistics on page 67 et seq. are made up to include the period since graduation.

Please remind me of any errors or omissions herein, and accept the usual hearty good wishes for your continued success and happiness.

GEORGE P. SANGER, Jr.,
Class Secretary.

RECORD OF THE CLASS.

JUNE, 1880—JUNE, 1884.

JAMES LLOYD ABBOT.

Has continued in partnership with Lyman C. Dorgan, Esq., under the firm name of Dorgan & Abbot, cotton-buyers, doing business and residing in Mobile, Ala. March 10, 1881, was married in Mobile to Amelia Lyon Ross; a son, Parkman Blake, was born April 4, 1882, but died July 29, 1882.

WILLIAM FITZHALE ABBOT.

Writes as follows: "I closed my connection with the Indianapolis Classical School in June, 1880. In July, 1880, I received an appointment in the college department of the Worcester High School; to this position I have been annually re-elected ever since. I may infer that my work has been satisfactory from two facts: no pupil of mine has been conditioned or rejected, and my salary has been raised. Dec. 28, 1882, I was married in Milwaukee, Wis., to Caroline Ward Sewall." Resides at 26 William Street, Worcester, Mass.

RICHARD MINOT ALLEN.

Has continued as a member of the firm of Babbitt, Blanchard & Co., cattle-breeders, at Cheyenne, Wyoming Terr., and is assistant manager of the Standard Cattle Company of Cheyenne, with ranches and herds also near Fort Worth, Tex., at which place he is now living, in charge of the business there.

EUGENE NELSON ASTON.

Died in Springfield, Mass., Feb. 23, 1878.

See Secretary's Report No. 3 (1880), pp. 7, 8.

FRANCIS EATON BABCOCK.

Spent most of the time since the last report on his brother's farm in Dudley, Mass., and in reading, studying and travelling, until Jan. 1, 1884, when he formed a partnership with Wingate P. Sargent under the firm name of Wingate P. Sargent & Babcock, as New England agents for Gilbert Manufacturing Company's silesias, linings, &c., at 26 and 28 Bedford Street, Boston. Resides at 10 East Brookline Street, Boston.

WALTER BAKER.

Writes as follows: "Remained at St. Luke's Hospital in New York city as chaplain until the autumn of 1883; in 1882 declined a call to the pastorate of the Episcopal Mission of Philadelphia, which embraced a church, hospital and a Guild House, with a Sunday school of 1900; declined in the same year an invitation to the pastorate of the Church Charity Foundation of Brooklyn, N.Y.; in the autumn of 1883 was appointed assistant minister of the Church of the Ascension, corner Tenth Street and Fifth Avenue, New York, which appointment he still retains; in June, 1881, received from Austin College the honorary degree of D.D.; has contributed articles on education to the New York 'Times,' 'Tribune' and 'Herald'; published in 1882 'Successful Workers, or Practical Christianity,' which was issued by Randolph & Co., of Broadway." Resides at 98 Fifth Avenue, and has his office at 12 West Eleventh Street, New York city.

WILLIAM HOWARD BAKER.

Has continued practising law in Philadelphia, Pa., having his office at 520 Walnut Street in that city. Is married and has one child, Ruth Stephens, born Jan. 25, 1882. Resides at 623 North Eighteenth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

CHARLES PARKER BANCROFT.

Was in the general practice of medicine in Boston until April 1, 1882, when he began his duties, under an appointment from the trustees, of Superintendent of the New Hampshire Asylum for the Insane, at Concord, N.H., and has since continued in that position; in 1882 was elected a member of the New England Psychological Society, and also a member of the National Association of Superintendents of American Institutions for the Insane.

HARRY HUDSON BARRETT.

Read law in offices in Boston until June 22, 1882, when, after examination, he was admitted to practise law in all the courts of the State; now has offices at 23 Court Street, Boston, and at 11 Pleasant-street Avenue in Malden, Mass.; is a justice of the peace. Resides in Malden.

GIORGIO ANACLETO CORRADO BENDELARI.

Remained in Cambridge as Instructor in Modern Languages at the College until June, 1882; then received an appointment to a similar position in Yale College for the year 1882-3, and in June, 1883, was appointed Assistant Professor of Modern Languages for five years in that college.

THOMAS SIMMS BETTENS.

Since Sept. 1878, has been teaching in the private school of Arthur H. Cutler (H.U. 1870) at 20 West Forty-third Street, New York city. Resides at the Kensington, corner Fifty-seventh Street and Fourth Avenue, New York city.

WOODBURY BLAIR.

Has continued to practise law in Washington, D.C., and now has his office in Corcoran Building, room 39, in that city.

GEORGE ANDREW BLANEY.

Has been practising law in Boston since May, 1878, having offices with Charles Robinson, Jr., Esq., at 209 Washington Street. Is married and has one child, Marguerite Germaine, born Feb. 15, 1884. Resides at Swampscott, Mass.

ERASTUS BRAINERD.

Was on the editorial staff of "The Press" of Philadelphia from Dec. 1, 1879, until Nov. 1881, when he gave up work, on account of ill-health, until Feb. 1882; then went to Atlanta, Ga., and became managing editor of the "Atlanta Constitution," and later, editor of the "Atlanta Star," an evening edition of the same paper; in May, 1883, returned to the office of "The Press," corner of Seventh and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia, where he now is; has contributed to "Harper's Magazine," "Critic," "Youth's Companion," and other periodicals; is a Knight of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem. May 30, 1882, was married in Richmond, Va., to Mary Bella Beale; a daughter was born March 13, 1883, but died Aug. 3, 1883.

JOHN WINTERS BRANNAN.

In Sept. 1880, left Boston on account of ill-health, and went to Colorado, and has since then been practising medicine at Colorado Springs; wrote article entitled "Peptonized Milk as a Curative Agent in Acute Dyspepsia," published in "Boston Medical and Surgical Journal," July 19, 1883, also article entitled "The Treatment of Retained Secundines after Abortion," published in same journal, Feb. 14, 1884; is a member of the Colorado State Medical Society. Nov. 9, 1882, was married in New York city to Eunice Dana; a son, Dana, was born Feb. 28, 1884.

GEORGE RUSSELL BRIGGS.

Remained in Cambridge during his second appointment as Tutor in Mathematics in the Academical Department of the University, which expired Sept. 1, 1881; shortly afterwards removed to Plymouth, Mass., and writes from that place as follows: "Being fascinated with out-of-door life among the woods and ponds of Plymouth, and convinced that the cranberry-growers in this part of the State were doing a profitable business, I looked about for a swamp suitable for the cultivation of cranberries; about two years ago I secured a very nice piece of about forty acres, and have now cleared and planted some twenty-five acres of it. In a year or two more I hope to have the whole swamp planted, and shall then find time to go to Cambridge and pass part of my time, at least, among old friends."

JOHN CHAPIN BRINSMADE.

Was assistant teacher at the boarding-school in Washington, Conn., known as the "Gunnery," until Aug. 16, 1881, when the Principal, Frederick W. Gunn (Y.C. 1837), died; since then has been Principal of the school. Is married and has two sons: Frederick Gunn, born March 8, 1882, and William Bartlett, born Jan. 4, 1884.

ALEXANDER PORTER BROWNE.

Continues to practise law in Boston, being the junior partner in the firm of Browne, Holmes & Browne, 82 Water Street, Boston, and Browne & Witter, 32 Park Place, New York city; prepared the fourth edition, published in 1880, of "Browne on the Statute of Frauds." Resides at 19 Marlboro' Street, Boston.

CHARLES THOMAS BUFFUM.

Has continued to practise medicine in New York city, having his office at 12 East Twenty-eighth Street; has been appointed one of the attending physicians to the New York Dispensary in the department of skin and venereal diseases, and in the same department at the Northern Dispensary in New York city.

HENRY MORGAN BURDETT.

Writes as follows: "Remained with Burdett & Pond, commission merchants, at 174 Water Street, New York city, until Jan. 14, 1884, when I went into the law office of Stanton & Cass in the Mutual Life Building in New York, where I am now. In Oct. 1883, I joined the junior class in the Law School of Columbia College, and am now trying to understand the course prescribed in that institution. My term of seven years' service in the 7th Reg. N.Y. N.G. expired Oct. 19, 1881." Resides at Stamford, Conn.

WILLIAM APPLETON BURNHAM.

Has resided in Boston until the present year, when he removed his domicile to Manchester, Mass., but intends to pass the winter months in Boston, at his house, 87 Beacon Street. Is one of the executors of his father's estate, and has an office in the Simmons Building, 40 Water Street, Boston. Is married and has three children: Alice Munroe, born July 30, 1880, William Appleton, Jr., born June 12, 1882, and Marian, born Jan. 4, 1884.

WILLIAM BURRY.

Continued to practise law in the office of Isham & Lincoln in Chicago, Ill., until Oct. 1881, when he became a member of the law firm of Isham, Lincoln, Burry & Ryerson, now having their offices in the Honoré Buildings in Chicago. The Mr. Lincoln of the firm is Hon. Robert T. Lincoln (H.U. 1864), Secretary of War.

See Secretary's Report No. 2 (1877), pp. 11, 12.

THOMAS CARY.

"Knows of absolutely nothing concerning himself that will interest his classmates. He is still supposed to be practising law in Buffalo, but in reality only attends to an estate of which he is executor." Resides at 184 Delaware Avenue, and has his office at room 4, Arcade, Buffalo, N.Y.

EDWARD WARREN CATE.

Writes as follows: "I continued to practise law with D. L. Withington, under the firm name of Withington & Cate, at 39 Court Street, Boston, until Jan. 1, 1881, when the firm was dissolved. Since that time I have practised alone, still having my office at the same place. I am still the clerk of the Police Court of Newton, Mass., having been re-appointed to that office by Governor Long in the fall of 1881, for a further term of five years. During the years 1880 and 1881, I represented Ward 1 of the city of Newton, in the Common Council. During the year 1882, I represented the same ward in the Board of Aldermen, but early in the year 1883, I resigned to accept a position on the Water Board, to which office I was appointed by Hon. William P. Ellison, Mayor of Newton. Upon the organization of the Water Board I was elected its president; this office I now hold. I was married Oct. 25, 1883, at Keene, N.H., to Mary Louise Doty." Resides at Newton, Mass.

GEORGE HERBERT CATE.

Writes as follows: "In June, 1880, resigned the pastorate of the Congregational Church in Essex, Conn., and sailed for Europe in the following August. Made the usual tours on the continent, and visited Egypt and the Holy Land. Studied theology in Leipsig University for two semestres during the year 1880-1. Returned home in Dec. 1881. July 11, 1882, was married in Jersey City Heights, N.J., to Lois Chase Read. Since Sept. 1, 1882, have been acting pastor of the Congregational Church in Collinsville, Conn. Have one child, a son, Sheriden Clavel, born April 17, 1883."

HENRY ARNOTT CHISHOLM.

Has been since Jan. 1, 1877, one of the partners in the firm of William Chisholm & Sons, manufacturers and proprietors of the Chisholm Steel Shovel Works, of which he is also superintendent, in Cleveland, Ohio. Is married and has one child. Resides at 142 Huntington Street, Cleveland, Ohio.

ARTHUR BLAKE CLAPP.

Continues to practise law in Boston, now having his office in the Adams Building, 23 Court Street. Resides at 11 Columbus Square, Boston.

HENRY ALDEN CLARK.

In the fall of 1880 formed a law partnership in Fall River, Mass., with Hugo A. Dubuque, Esq., under the firm name of Clark & Dubuque, which continued until Aug. 1882, when he removed to Erie, Pa., and Higginson took his place in the firm, its name being changed to Dubuque & Higginson; was afterwards temporarily connected with the Edison Electric Light Company, and Edison Company for Isolated Lighting, both of New York, and had general charge of the business in the District of Columbia, Maryland and Western Pennsylvania; May 9, 1884, at Erie, Pa., was admitted to the bar of the Pennsylvania courts, and for some time previously had practised, and is now practising, law in Erie with his father-in-law, Gen. David B. McCreary, under the firm name of McCreary & Clark; is secretary of the Harvard Law School Association of the class of 1877. Is married and has one child, Annette McCreary, born July 13, 1880.

LOUIS CRAWFORD CLARK.

Continues in business as a member of the firm of Clark, Dodge & Co., bankers and brokers. at 51 Wall Street, New York city. Is married and has two children: Louis Crawford, Jr., born Jan. 18, 1881, and Grenville. Resides at 311 Fifth Avenue, New York city, and has built a summer residence in Burlington, Vt.

CHARLES CECIL CLARKE.

Has continued in the Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs Service. In the spring of 1882 returned to this country on a two-years' leave of absence, and in February last left again for China; is now stationed with Merrill at Shanghai. Jan. 9, 1884, was married in Cambridge, Mass., to Nellie M. Carter. (No report since 1880.)

SAMUEL BELCHER CLARKE.

Has been, since Oct. 1877, an Assistant United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York, and has his office in the Post-office Building in New York city. Is married and has two children, Edith Cornelia, born May 8, 1881, and Henry Rogers, born Feb. 1, 1884.

ARTHUR CLIFFORD, the third son of *John Henry and Sarah Parker (Allen) Clifford, was born in New Bedford, Mass., April 7, 1852.

The sad news of the death of Arthur Clifford came so suddenly and unexpectedly to those of us who knew him intimately in college, that it was difficult for us to realize that we had lost a most devoted friend and loyal classmate.

His parents always resided in New Bedford. His father, a prominent citizen, and widely known as a lawyer of marked ability, entered public life at an early age, and filled with great credit to himself and his constituents numerous high offices in the gift of the people. Among these offices were those of Attorney General of the State, President of the State Senate, and Governor of the Commonwealth. His father was also deeply interested in the welfare and progress of Harvard College, and was for a time President of the Board of Overseers. From his mother, too, Clifford inherited sterling qualities which came through the several generations of descendants of sturdy Capt. Miles Standish, of Plymouth Colony fame.

Attending the Friends' Academy in New Bedford until he was fifteen years of age, he then entered Phillips Exeter Academy, and, completing there the preparatory course for admission to college, he was admitted to the Class in July, 1870. From the beginning to the close of the college course he occupied one of the foremost places amongst us. Gifted as he was with marked qualities of a leader, and endowed with sound judgment and discretion, his social prominence in the Class was steadily maintained. He was Vice-President of the Institute of 1770 and of the Hasty Pudding Club, and was also a member of the Porcellian Club. Of these and the other societies to which he belonged, he always had thoroughly at heart the prosperity and success, and was zealous in promoting their interests. We remember, too, his enthusiasm in discussing public men and affairs. His father's position gave to Clifford excellent opportunities for meeting some of the prominent men of the day, which he improved to great advantage. His trip to the West with President Grant and party in the summer of 1870, he often referred to with great pleasure. For the profession of law early in the college course he showed a decided fondness, but later he developed a taste for the medical profession, and decided to make this his life-work, and selected his studies with that end in view.

After graduation he at once commenced the study of medicine, spending the first year and most of the third year at the Harvard Medical School, and in the interim continuing his studies, on account of ill-health, at Winchendon, Mass., with Dr. Ira Russell. He subsequently attended the Medical School of Dartmouth College, and received the degree of M.D. from that college in November, 1877. He then pursued, for the following winter, the regular course at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York city, where he received an appointment as clinical assistant. While engaged in these studies he visited hospitals and dispensaries in New York, and took a special course with Dr. Alfred Loomis, receiving from him a diploma for proficiency in Physical Diagnosis. In July, 1879, having been admitted the preceding June, after examination, as a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and of the Worcester Northern District Society, he returned to his home in New Bedford, and, with such thorough training and preparatory professional work, he entered into active practice, taking the office and practice of Dr. C. D. Stickney, who was obliged to rest temporarily on account of ill-health. This gave him at once a good practice, which steadily increased far beyond his expectations, and he became prominent at the outset in the various medical societies in the vicinity; among these were the New Bedford Society for Medical Improvement, and the Bristol South District Society, of which latter society he was the orator at the meeting in 1880. His professional work having become very engrossing and arduous, and his health showing again signs of failing, he was obliged to seek rest, and returned to Dr. Russell at Winchendon. After some months, his health being apparently restored, he made arrangements to renew his practice, and his family and friends were hoping he might have health and strength to carry out his plan. But his sad death, on Feb. 26, 1881, crushed all hopes and aspirations for his recovery and continued success. He was married Feb. 5, 1880, in Detroit, Mich., to Kate E., daughter of Hon. Philo Parsons, of Detroit. His widow and son, Charles Parsons, born Oct. 23, 1880, continue to reside in New Bedford.

How sincerely his death was mourned, not only by his many college friends, but also by his professional brethren, we all very well know. His short career was marked by diligent and intelligent work, and his success was assured. A kind and devoted husband, son and brother, he was ever thoughtful and considerate of those about him, and his sensitive nature shrank from anything that could wound or injure the feelings of others. May we all strive to live, as he sought to do, an honorable, useful and upright life.

C. S. T.

At the class meeting on Commencement, June 28, 1881, resolutions to the memory of our classmate, prepared by a committee consisting of Peters, Jones and L. C. Clark, were adopted, and copies thereof were sent to the family of the deceased and to each member of the class. A card announcing his death was also sent to the class.

GEORGE OLIVER GEORGE COALE.

Has continued to practise law in Boston, making a specialty of patent law, and has had his office since May, 1882, at 82 Water Street. Dec. 9, 1882, was married at Boston to Elizabeth Atkinson; has one child, Marian, born Oct. 30, 1883. Resides in Jamaica Plain, Mass.

FREDERIC COLLINS.

Remained in the law office of W. S. Kerruish, Esq., of Cleveland, O., until the summer of 1883; since then has gradually withdrawn from the practice of law. "In 1881, at the request of the Brush Electric Company, of which he was then secretary, compiled from the statutory digests of the various States a pamphlet printed by the Brush Company, entitled 'An Abstract of the Statutory Law of Corporations, as respects their Formation, Officers, Meetings, Liability of Members, &c., for all the States in the Union;' also, the same year, a duodecimo volume, entitled 'Is there a Christian Sabbath?' a reprint of an anonymous work, entitled 'A Scripture View of the Sabbath, edited, with copious notes and two supplementary chapters, by a Churchman of Northern Ohio.' Is a member of the Cleveland Humane Society and of the festival chorus of the Cleveland Vocal Society."

THOMAS CORLIES.

Writes from New York city, May 21, 1884, as follows: "I have nothing at all to communicate which could possibly be of interest to my classmates."

HENRY HORACE CROCKER.

Remained with Perkins & Choate, iron, &c., merchants at 23 Nassau Street, New York city, until the spring of 1883; May 12, 1883, was elected a member of the New York Stock Exchange, and has since continued in the stock business in New York, having an office at 51 Wall Street. Resides at 54 West Twenty-first Street, New York city.

FREDERIC CUNNINGHAM.

Writes as follows: "I have continued to live in Brookline since the last report, and to practise law in Boston at 30 Court Street, having an office adjoining that of Lewis S. Dabney, Esq., with whom I was a student after graduating from the Harvard Law School." Is married.

FREDERICK SPAULDING CUTTER.

Remained in Wakefield, Mass., as principal of the Grammar School there until July, 1881, when he was appointed to his present position of master of the Centre Grammar School in Natick, Mass.

PAUL DANA.

Has continued in the office of "The Sun," published by his father,

Charles A. Dana, Esq., at 168 Nassau Street, New York city, and has an active share in the management of that paper; is the owner of some of the finest dogs in the country, and is an acknowledged authority in all canine matters, being chief judge at the dog show in New York this spring.

RICHARD HENRY DANA.

Continues to practise law in Boston, having an office at 30 Court Street. Writes as follows: "Had a serious attack of typhoid fever in Oct. 1881, lasting into the spring of 1882, and went abroad during that summer to recover from the after-effects, and came back in Oct. 1882, fully well. Has since devoted the spare time from his profession mostly to the cause of Civil Service Reform, writing numerous articles in the 'Civil Service Reform Record'; was on the committee of the Massachusetts Civil Service Reform League, which presented a bill for reform for the State and cities of Massachusetts; was secretary of the Independent Republicans at their meeting in New York, Feb. 23, 1884, and has been working in several philanthropic societies in Boston, especially the Associated Charities, in whose organization in 1878 and 1879 he labored, and whose scheme of work he drew up." Is married; his second child, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, was born Jan. 26, 1881, and his third child, Frances Appleton, was born May 25, 1883. Resides at 33 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston.

ARTHUR LITHGOW DEVENS.

Was with the house of E. R. Mudge, Sawyer & Co., 15 Chauncy Street, Boston, dry-goods commission merchants and selling-agents of several mills, until the dissolution of the firm, caused by the death of Mr. Mudge, in Oct. 1881; was specially connected with the dress-goods and woollen departments of the business of the Washington Mills of Lawrence, Mass., while with the above firm, and continued in his position with their successors, Joy, Lincoln & Motley, at the same place, until his resignation, which took effect April 15, 1884. April 26, 1884, sailed for Europe with his family, and expects to return to business in Boston in the fall. Is married and has three children; his third child, Elizabeth Elwood, was born April 12, 1881.

JAMES EDWARD DITSON, the fourth child of Oliver and Catherine (Delano) Ditson, was born in Boston, Dec. 11, 1852.

He first attended the Dwight Grammar School in Boston, and after a college education was decided upon, he removed to the Chauncy Hall School, and was fitted for college by those able teachers, Messrs. Cushing and Ladd. While at the latter school he received several medals for general excellence, and one in particular for elocution.

In college he was known as an earnest and industrious student, but only to his most intimate classmates was revealed his purity, uprightness, thorough kindness of heart, and noble, self-sacrificing nature.

In September, 1874, he entered the well-known house of Oliver Ditson & Co., music-publishers in Boston, and after mastering the details of the business, he spent several months in Europe, and soon after his return, in December, 1875, he was admitted to the firm, and went to Philadelphia to take charge of the branch house just established there, under the firm name of J. E. Ditson & Co. He was married in Boston, Oct. 2, 1877, to Henrietta Curtis Mixer, daughter of John Mixer, Esq., and had one child, James Edward Ditson, Jr., born Oct. 20, 1878. His widow and child are now residing in Boston. He returned to Boston in the summer of 1880, where he intended to reside and continue in business with the old house.

During the following winter he had a succession of heavy colds which resulted in a severe attack of pneumonia, confining him to his bed for several weeks. As soon as he was able he went to Old Point Comfort, Va., and as he gained some flesh and strength, his friends felt encouraged; but soon that insidious and dread disease, consumption, showed itself by unmistakable signs. As a last resort, early in July, 1881, he went to Upper Saint Regis Lake in the Adirondacks, hoping, alas how vainly! to gain health and strength in the balmy pine forests; but it was of no avail; and surrounded by his wife and child, with such attentions as only a loving heart can render, gradually, uncomplainingly, with an heroic fortitude and sublime Christian faith, he fell asleep, the murmuring pines chanting his requiem. He died Aug. 7, 1881.

If we who remain will but study and try to imitate such a sweet and noble life, surely his stay here, although short, will not have been in vain.

F. E. B.

The usual notice was sent to the class at the time of his death, and at the class meeting on the following Commencement, June 28, 1882, appropriate resolutions were passed to his memory, which were subsequently sent to his family, and to each member of the class.

NATHAN HASKELL DOLE.

Writes as follows: "In Sept. 1880, went to New York city and served as an errant 'knight of the quill,' writing regularly for the 'Boston Commonwealth,' and for three months contributing to the 'San Francisco Chronicle' weekly letters, only two of which were ever used or paid for. In the following summer wrote for Estes & Lauriat 'Young Folks' History of Russia' (520 pp.), which was considered fairly successful, and has since passed into a second edition. In Sept. 1881, went to Philadelphia as assistant in the Classical School of Henry Hobart Brown (H.U. 1876). Through the favor of our classmate Brainerd, became unofficially connected with 'The Press,' and contributed book reviews and occasional musical criticisms. On Brainerd's removal to the sunny South, was appointed regular literary and musical editor. Since that time, while still engaged in teaching eight or ten hours a week, in my capacity of a newspaper Cerberus have regularly barked at art, literature and music. Besides my journalistic work, which has averaged six columns a week, have written a few translations from German and Russian, contributed several articles to the American reprint of the 'Encyclopædia Britannica,' and begun a 'History of Constantinople.' Am also slowly preparing to publish a small volume of songs and translations. My only public work since graduation has been to deliver at Hingham, Mass., and at St. John, N.B., a lecture against Spiritism, and a course of talks about English literature while at Derby Academy. June 28, 1882, was married in Boston to Helen James Bennett ; " has a son not yet named, born June 13, 1884. Resides at 1934 Locust Street, Philadelphia. JACOB HAMILTON FARRAR.

Writes as follows: "I continued in the service of the Union Electric Signal Company until May 1, 1882, when Westinghouse bought out the company and combined it with a switch company, now known as the Union Switch & Signal Company. Having in mind what I believed to be a decided improvement on the old electric signals, I resigned, and devoted myself to materializing my ideas; as invention or experimenting is often expensive, and, at first, unremunerative, so it proved in this case, and I soon found myself 'dead broke.' Not knowing of anything else in which to engage and still be master of my mind and time, so that at will I could continue my work on my electric signal, I engaged in the real-estate brokerage business, to which I have devoted my efforts, except such as I have turned to my signal; I have thus in fact been so engaged in 3 Major Block, Chicago, for nearly two years. My electric signal is completed and application for patent is made." (Here follows a description and drawing of the invention.) "I have also applied for a patent on a through passage under the sidewalks. My idea is to use the space now in some cases used for selling or storing goods, for placing the sewer, water-main, gas-main, electric wires and a railroad, thus:"— (Drawing set forth, also a detailed statement of the workings and cost of such an invention, which will be furnished upon application to any member of the class desiring to invest money in the enterprise.)

Has retained his connection with the Imperial University at Tokio, Japan. In 1881, he was appointed Professor of Philosophy, and continued his instruction in Political Economy, but giving over Political Philosophy to a new professor from Germany; has since been conducting three courses in Philosophy and one in Logic, besides two in Political Economy. This summer he becomes Professor of Philosophy and Logic, the department of Political Economy being assumed by a Japanese who has been studying in Europe. He writes, under date of March 27, 1884, as follows: . . . "His courses in Philosophy are conducted now entirely by lectures. In the Freshman year he gives the students a course on Synthetic Logic; in the Sophomore year they get the history of modern philosophy to Hegel; in the Junior year they devote themselves to Hegel, with side glances at Spencer; in the Senior year he lectures on Ethics, Æsthetics, and the Philosophy of Religion. . . . Since the last report he has been greatly extending his researches into the history of Chinese and Japanese painting. Besides completing his collection of specimens, he has had thousands of pages translated specially for him from native works, and he has travelled hundreds of miles into the interior to see public and private collections. During 1881, he gave a course of lectures on Eastern Painting, in public, which were attended chiefly by Japanese artists. In this he tried to induce the Japanese to revive their native art, and in a later lecture he developed a scheme for its practical revival. In accordance with this scheme, in October, 1882, an exhibition of new paintings was held, about 3000 being exhibited, and prizes given by the government. He was appointed advisor to the board of judges. Since then he has given several courses of lectures on native art, in public, and he has now the satisfaction of seeing the whole nation excited over the subject. Everywhere young men are turning to the revived practice of art. In 1883, he was granted the right to use the name Kano by the present head of the great family of artists. His full Japanese name is now Kano Yeitan Masanoln. . . . His collection of paintings comprises original works of all the great masters for the last 1200 years." Is married and has two children: Ernest Kano, born June 20, 1880, and Brenda, born July 25, 1883.

(No report has been received from him since graduation.)

GIFFORD HORACE GREELEY McGREW.

Writes from Wareham, Mass., as follows: "I left the Harvard Divinity School in June, 1880, to become Principal of the High School in this place, and I am still holding the fort. The prospect is that I may remain here an indefinite time. In addition to my regular school-work, I have had private pupils nearly all the time, from three to five hours a week. Is now master of the Social Harmony Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, of Wareham, and has prepared and published an historical sketch of that lodge. The 'Class Baby' would resent the term 'Baby' now, as he is nine years old, and his intellectual attainments do full credit to his father and mother." Has had two more children: Mary Edith, born Jan. 18, 1882, and another daughter, born May 13, 1883, who died the same day.

WILLIAM GORDON McMILLAN.

Has continued to reside and to practise law in Chicago, Ill.; has had his office since May 1, 1884, at 94 Washington Street, room 22, in that city.

WILLIAM STAPLES MARSTON.

Dec. 29, 1880, was married at St. Catharine's, Ontario, Can., to Marguerite Woodruff; has two children: William, born Oct. 9, 1881, and Peirce, born Jan. 13, 1883.

WILLIAM CASTEIN MASON.

Writes as follows: "I still continue to practise medicine in Bangor, Me., my native place; was city physician from March, 1879, to March, 1881; since Nov. 1883, have been president of the Penobscot County Medical Association, having previously served as secretary and treasurer and as first vice-president; in June, 1880, I became a member of the Maine Medical Association, serving as its necrologist for one year; also as a member of the committee to visit the Portland School for Medical Instruction, and again as delegate to the Vermont Medical Society; in Jan. 1884, I received the appointment of Acting Assistant Surgeon in the United States Marine Hospital Service for the Port of Bangor; am a member of the following Masonic bodies: of the York Rite, — St. Andrew's Lodge, Mt. Moriah Royal Arch Chapter, Bangor Council and St. John's Commandery of Knights Templar of Bangor; of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite, — Eastern Star Lodge of Perfection of Bangor, Portland Council of Princes of Jerusalem, and Dunlap Chapter of Rose Croix of Portland, and Maine Sovereign Consistory 32d°." Office at 52 Main Street, and residence at 132 Hammond Street, Bangor, Me.

EDWIN GARRALD MERRIAM.

Writes as follows: "I continued to be associated with Judge Thompson in the preparation of legal treatises until about Sept. 1882; some of this work is at present unpublished; a book entitled 'Thompson and Merriam on Juries' was published by us in Aug. 1882. In the following month I was engaged by the legal department of the Missouri Pacific Railway Company to assist in a matter of business pertaining to that department; in December of that year I was offered a position as assistant attorney with Hon. John C. Brown, General Solicitor of the above-named company, its leased and operated lines; I accepted this offer, and am at present thus employed, having my office at room 36, Equitable Building." Is married. Resides at 2632 Locust Street, St. Louis, Mo.

HENRY FERDINAND MERRILL.

Has continued in the Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs Service; in 1882 was granted a two years' leave of absence, and arrived in Boston June 10, 1882, by the overland route; writes from Shanghai, April 7, 1884, as follows: "I left home in October last after seventeen months' stay. My visit there was so pleasant that it was very hard to take my departure again. I came East this time, making short visits in England, France and Italy, and finally taking the steamer for China at Naples; the voyage out was very pleasant and interesting, for we stopped at various places on the way, in Egypt, Arabia, Ceylon, the Straits, Cochin China, and Hong Kong, and saw a little of the manners and customs in each place. Now I am back amongst the Chinese, and am stationed for the present at Shanghai, the largest and most important of the Chinese ports. Clarke is here too, this being the first time since our arrival in China that I have been stationed at the same port with another of our quartette. I am in for another five years of China life now, . . . and hope to be with you on Commencement day in 1889."

HENRY CHILDS MERWIN.

Has continued to practise law in Boston, and now has his office at 40 Water Street. Oct. 1, 1884, published "The Patentability of Inventions." April 22, 1884, was married in Boston to Anne Amory Andrews. At present resides at 126 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston.

ETHELBERT SMITH MILLS.

Returned from California, whither he went in pursuit of health in 1881, and has since been unfitted for any occupation, by reason of ill-health. Resides at 150 Montague Street, Brooklyn, N.Y.

JAMES JACKSON MINOT.

Was in Europe from Aug. 1878, to Aug. 1880, continuing his medical studies; is now practising medicine in Boston, having his office at his residence, 15 Charles Street; in 1880, was physician to Boston Dispensary. Is a member of the Boston Society for Medical Improvement.

EUGENE USHER MITCHELL, the son of Charles and Ruth Hall (Wentworth) Mitchell, was born in Newfield, Me., Feb. 14, 1851.

He was fitted for college at Phillips Academy, at Exeter, N.H., and was admitted to our class with great credit at the July examinations in 1870.

To all his Exeter classmates he was endeared by the many sterling qualities of heart and mind which he early developed there. Always one of the first scholars in the class of '70, his remarkable power of concentration and application enabled him easily to hold his rank throughout the course, and gave him opportunity to enjoy to the full all the pleasures of the school life in that delightful town. How fully he entered into it and enjoyed it his classmates, who shared with him the active sports on the delta and ball field, will remember, while his fewer and more intimate friends, who accompanied him on the long walks to Kingston and Brentwood Pool, and the excursions to Rye, Hampton and other places of interest near Exeter, can never forget how much his genial and appreciative nature, his clear perception, his fund of anecdote, and his quiet humor, added to their pleasure. His school life was a bright memory to him, and one to which he frequently referred with great interest.

In college he retained the warm friendships he had formed at school. His nature was quiet and retiring, and not of the kind which forms new associates and friends eagerly or rapidly. Yet from the first he was thoroughly admired and appreciated for his perfect manliness and honor, for his keen insight into abstruse and difficult subjects, and for his thorough mastery of everything which he undertook. In the Institute of 1770, and Pi Eta Society, of both of which he was a member, his quiet enjoyment of and interest in all which interested his classmates, and his loyalty to all Class interests, soon won him a large circle of friends.

He was not widely known in the Class for his talents, yet they were of a high order, and had he cared for high rank as a scholar he could easily have attained it. He seemed rather to care only for those things the mastery of which would improve and strengthen him, and at graduation our Class numbered but few who were better prepared to contend with the realities of life than Mitchell.

After graduation, he filled with credit the position of Master of Mathematics at DeVeaux College until January, 1876. He then became Principal of the High School at Sanford, Me., where he remained until June, 1879, and afterwards was for a year assistant in the High School in Portland, Me. Tired of teaching, and desirous of engaging in some occupation more lucrative, he formed an advantageous business connection with his brother, who had a large business at Miragoane, Hayti, and took up his residence there. His brother was also then and now is United States Consular Agent at that port. The business proved highly satisfactory in its results, but the climate of the island did not agree with him. In the summer of 1881, he had made his arrangements to return home for a vacation, and had gone to Port au Prince; while waiting for the arrival of the vessel which was to take him back to the scenes which were so dear to him, he was taken suddenly and violently ill, and died Aug. 29, 1881, after a brief sickness.

The sudden termination of his successful and promising life in a foreign land, at a time when his prospects were brightest, is peculiarly saddening to all of us.

F. C. F.

The class were notified at the time news of his death was received, and on the following Commencement, June 28, 1882, at the Class meeting, appropriate resolutions were adopted to his memory, and sent to his family and to each member of the class.

HENRY LEE MORSE.

Has continued to practise medicine in Boston, with the exception of six months the past year, when he was studying in Vienna, paying particular attention to diseases of the ear, throat and nose. Has been elected surgeon at the Carney Hospital, and is also upon the medical staff of the Boston Dispensary. His present office is at 109 Boylston Street, Boston.

HOSEA BALLOU MORSE.

Since graduation has been in the Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs Service; continued in the London office of the Inspectorate General of Customs until the fall of 1882, when he was sent to this country by the Chinese government to study the American custom-house system, and especially the warehouse methods of holding bonded goods. After a short vacation in this country he returned to China, and arrived in Shanghai in April, 1883, where he expected to remain for another term of five years before taking another vacation. While in London, was elected a Member of Royal Asiatic Society, and also a Fellow of Royal Geographical Society. Feb. 8, 1881, was married in Richmond, Surrey, Eng., to Annie Josephine Welsford. (No report since 1882.)

August 17, 1881, was married at Fort Stanton, N.M., to Virginia Margaret (Strickler) Kirkwood; our first child, Virginia, was born at Fort Cummings, Sept. 26, 1882, and died at Fort Sill, June 2, 1883; our second child, Richard, was born at Fort Sill, March 28, 1884. Have contributed about a dozen papers to different medical journals — principally to the 'New York Medical Record.'"

WILLIAM ICHABOD NICHOLS.

Writes as follows: "In the midst of my examinations for a degree at the Harvard Divinity School in June, 1880, I was taken suddenly ill, and was prevented from taking a degree, which I have not attempted to obtain since. I was obliged to spend nearly the whole year 1880-1 in resting and trying to regain my health. In the spring of 1881, I received an invitation from the Second Parish (Unitarian) in Hingham, Mass., to become its minister, and entered upon my duties in Sept. 1881. After preaching in South Hingham a year, I was ordained in Oct. 1882. I felt obliged to resign in Oct. 1883, on account of poor health, and soon after took a young man as pupil, and have lived in Cambridge. My health is so far restored that I hope to take up again the work of the ministry in the fall."

JOHN PARSONS.

Continued for some time to serve as acting pastor of the Congregational Churches in East and North Woodstock, Conn.; May 1, 1883, became acting pastor of the Dayville Congregational Church at Killingly, Conn., where he has since remained. fall of 1883 went to San Francisco for two months to refit our ships engaged in the Arctic whaling, and expect to be there again this fall. Was a member of the New Bedford Common Council in 1883, and was re-elected this year. Was elected in March, 1884, President of the New Bedford Board of Trade." Is married and has three children.

ARCHIBALD DICK THOMAS, the third son of Samuel Baldwin and Hannah Graham (Flower) Thomas, was born in West Chester, Pa., Jan. 13, 1854.

The son of a prominent Pennsylvania lawyer who had been Deputy Secretary of State, and held other high positions of honor and trust, ARCHIBALD DICK THOMAS, in the few short years of his participation in the business of life, accomplished more good than falls to the lot of most young men, and gave promise of leaving a name long to be honored in the annals of his State.

He received his early education in Media, a neighboring town to West Chester, his birthplace. He was a precocious boy, studied earnestly, read avidously, and was prepared to enter the University of Pennsylvania several years before he was of an age to be admitted. But he passed his examination, and was admitted with a condition in Latin quantity only. In the interim between his preparation for the University of Pennsylvania and his entrance at Harvard, a period of four years, he spent his time in the office of his father, where he absorbed the spirit and practice of the law. At that tender age his perceptions were so acute and his acquirements so considerable that he was duly authorized to act as an Assistant Register of Bankruptcy, and, later, as a clerk to the Prothonotary, and also the County Clerk of Delaware County.

He was admitted to college with the Class in 1870. It was at once evident to those who met him that his was a positive character, that he had read more and to better effect at entrance than most college men have done at graduation; and that his companions would be amused, entertained and instructed by a conversation which was remarkable for apt illustration, logical method and quaint and attractive diction, with intelligent and original comment. It was these qualities which early made Thomas the centre of a group which was always ready to listen to what he had to say on topics of the day in academic or extra-academic circles. While in college he took much interest in base-ball, acting as scorer for the Class Nine, — his myopia preventing his playing, — and also was a graceful and energetic boxer.

During his college course Thomas paid special attention to the study of history. He published a pamphlet on the subject, which was of great use to the Class. It showed not only a mind well stored by a systematic and orderly arrangement, but also a comprehensive grasp of his topic. Following Emerson's and Carlyle's precepts, that a library is the best university, Thomas paid more attention to reading than to study of the prescribed course; but his reading was not aimless nor misdirected. He chose such authors as were best adapted to filling his mind with aids in his future profession — that of the law. He was a member of the Institute of 1770, and made himself familiar with all that was good in the well-selected library of that venerable society; and from the stores of learning of that and the college library, he went forth well equipped to cope with men far older than himself.

After leaving college, Thomas began the study of law in West Chester, and was admitted to the bar of Chester County in June, 1877. Too close application to his studies weakened his constitution, and in February, 1881, he was seized with a violent hemorrhage of the lungs. A succession of hemorrhages followed, and resulted in his death on March 25, 1881.

During his life in West Chester he was an active promoter of every movement intended to promote the improvement of his adopted home. He was an officer of the public library, of the building association, and of the local political organizations; and he was well versed in local, county, state and national politics, in which he promised to take a considerable part.

Of his modest and unassuming disposition, courteous temper and varied mental accomplishments, it is unnecessary to speak. He was amiable, generous and charitable; scrupulous in his business relations, and accurate in his work. He had a clear comprehension of principles, logical and cogent reasoning powers, and by his death the Class of 1874 has lost a member who did credit to it in his lifetime, and left an example to be recommended to men of his age.

E. B.

The usual notice was sent to the class at the time of his death, and on the following Commencement meeting, June 29, 1881, the resolutions presented by the committee were adopted, and a copy of the same was sent to the family of the deceased and to each member of the class.

CHARLES SANDERS TUCKERMAN.

Remained in the Boston office of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé Railroad Company until Aug. 15, 1881; since then has been secretary and treasurer of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, having his office at 87 Milk Street, Boston. Is married; has two children: Muriel, born March 6, 1881, and John Appleton, born Nov. 26, 1883. Resides at Ipswich, Mass., but spends the winter months at his house 292 Marlboro' Street, Boston.

COLUMBUS TYLER TYLER.

Writes, March 14, 1884, as follows: "In March, 1878, I went to Columbus, O., to the position of General Agent of the C. S. & C. R.R., which position I held until July 1, 1880, when I was promoted to be Assistant Superintendent of the same road, with headquarters at Springfield, O. In the fall of 1881, the road was leased to the Indiana, Bloomington & Western Railway Company, in whose employ I continued in the same position until July, 1882, when I was made superintendent of that part of the new road lying east of Indianapolis, in all about 330 miles. This position I held only three months, resigning in September, 1882. From that time until the following May, I was in Boston, in the mean time receiving a call from my brother, who was established in business in the Philippine Islands. I started on the last day of May on the journey of 11,000 miles, with my little family, to this place, Iloilo, Island of Panay, reaching here August 7, 1883. . . . The climate here is delightful, though I must say we have not yet passed through the hot season. The mercury seldom passes 95 degrees, and as seldom 65 degrees ; and this fall when it fell to 65 degrees we were all of us shivering. Our houses are very open, and every breath of air we get the benefit of, and our nights are always cool. The people here, or the great majority, are Indians who speak the Visayan dialect, a form of Malay, as a rule ; but association with the Spaniards, in whose hands the islands are, has taught many of them that language, and it is the language of the business men. In Iloilo there are about twenty foreigners (English, Scotch, Swiss and Americans) in a population of about 15,000. . . . Notwithstanding the low situation of the town, it is a most healthful place. Further, we get few of the terrible typhoons and earthquakes to which the neighboring island of Manila is subject. Once or twice since we arrived we have had slight shakes, just enough to give us a taste of such things ; and in full view, in the adjacent island of Negros, is a volcano which is always smoking. . . . The firm here originally was Austin & Co., but has become Peele, Hubbell & Co., being the Iloilo house of that firm in which my brother is a partner. June 1, 1881, I was married in Columbus, O., to Daisy Lodge Reed, of that city, and we have two children, Katharine, born May 12, 1882, and Mary Lodge, born March 3, 1884."

HARRY BLAKE TYLER.

Since the last report, was for some time secretary and treasurer of the New York and Pennsylvania Construction Company, but is not now engaged in any active business. Resides at 201 South Fifteenth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

WILLIAM ROYALL TYLER.

Has been teaching since graduation at Adams Academy, Quincy, Mass., a preparatory school for admission to college, of which Dr. William Everett is now master. June 28, 1883, was married in Boston to Ellen Frances Krebs ; a son, Royall, was born May 2, 1884.

FREDERICK OZNI VAILLE.

Continued to reside in Denver, Col., until Feb. 1884, when he returned East, and has since been temporarily residing in Cambridge, Mass. While at Denver was manager of the Colorado Telephone Company, dealing in electric telephones, the electric light, and electrical apparatus of all kinds. Is married ; his second child, Edith Aliee, was born Aug. 13, 1882.

GEORGE WILLETT VAN NEST.

Spent the winters of 1880-1 and 1881-2 travelling in Colorado and New Mexico ; was in New Mexico while the Atchison, Topeka & Sante Fé Railroad was being built, and while the development of the mining districts was being started, and at Socorro and Albuquerque had exciting experiences with vigilance committees, at the latter place being mistaken for a murderer, "about his size," and shot at, but escaped without injury ; visited most of the Indian tribes, and was particularly interested in the Zuni Indians. In the fall of 1882, resumed the practice of law, and opened an office at 66 Wall Street, New York city, where he has since remained. Wrote an article on the "Impeachment of Judicial Officers under the Constitution of the United States," which was published in the "American Law Review" for Nov. 1882.

EDWARD WOOD WALKER.

Has continued to practise medicine in Cincinnati, O., having his office and residence at 268 Elm Street in that city. Is surgeon to Cincinnati Hospital and to the Home for Sick Children in Cincinnati ; is pathologist to Betts Street Hospital, and lecturer on Morbid Anatomy at Medical College of Ohio, both in Cincinnati.

WILLIAM PEARSON WARNER.

Continued in the office of the Bell Telephone Company in Boston until May 10, 1881, when he went into the office of Peters & Parkinson, stock brokers, at 35 Congress Street, Boston, where he has since remained. Resides at 4 Spruce Street, Boston.

EDWARD WINSLOW WELLINGTON.

Writes as follows : "In the summer of 1880 Richardson and myself bought out the interest of our partner, Joseph B. Bowles, and continued the business of sheep and wool growing under the firm name of Wellington & Richardson until the spring of 1881, when we sold out our stock and ranch, and, by mutual consent and for mutual advantage, dissolved partnership. I soon purchased another ranch, and continued alone in business until Feb. 1, 1882, when I formed a co-partnership with D. M. Rollins, Esq., of New York, and Francis Hathaway, Esq., of New Bedford, Mass., under the firm name of E. W. Wellington & Co. We now have one of the largest and best improved ranches in the State ; are running 10,000 head of very high grade and thorough-bred sheep, and 500 head of cattle, including blooded stock of the short-horned, Polled Angus, Jersey and Swiss breeds. In April, 1882, was admitted to the Kansas bar, in order to escape jury duty, however, and not from any love for the profession. Have always taken a lively interest in local politics.

Am an active member of many wool-growers' and cattle-breeders' associations, and for the past two years have held the position of president of the Central Kansas Wool Growers' Association. In 1881 became a member of Ellsworth Lodge No. 146, A. F. and A. M., and in 1883 a member of Ellsworth Chapter Royal Arch Masons. Am very enthusiastic over the stock business, and hope to make Monte Carneiro Ranch my home for many years to come." Is married. Resides at Carneiro, Ellsworth County, Kan.

FRANK THAXTER WENDELL.

Has continued with the firm of Wendell, Fay & Co., dry goods commission merchants, at 37 Franklin Street, Boston, and selling agents of the Middlesex Mills of Lowell, Mass., and other mills; July 1, 1883, was admitted as a partner in the firm. Is married and has one child, Mark Thaxter, born Aug. 4, 1881. Resides in Highland Street, Roxbury, Mass.

WILLIAM ASA WHEELER.

Continued to practise medicine in Evansville, Ind., until the latter part of 1880, when he was appointed Assistant Surgeon in the United States Marine Hospital Service; was first stationed in New York city, and in April, 1881, took charge of the Marine Hospital in Charleston, S.C., remaining there two years; was then appointed resident surgeon at the Marine Hospital in Chicago, Ill., where he has since remained. Jan. 30, 1883, was married in Newport, R.I., to Sarah Gorham Peirce. His office is at room 20, Custom House, Chicago, Ill.

GEORGE WARNER WHITE.

In Sept. 1880, became a partner in a publishing house in Boston, and from May, 1882, to Jan. 1884, was treasurer of the Russell Publishing Company, at the same time continuing his law practice; since Jan. 1, 1884, has had law offices at 16 Pemberton Square, Boston, with Southworth. Belongs to Masonic and other societies. Jan. 28, 1882, was married in Boston to Emma Louise Adams; his wife died in Melrose, Mass., May 25, 1884. Resides temporarily in Melrose, Mass.

EDWARD LAWRENCE WHITEHOUSE.

Has been, since Oct. 1879, residing in Augusta, Me., and practising law in that city. March 15, 1880, was appointed supervisor of schools in Augusta.

GEORGE WIGGLESWORTH.

Is still practising law in Boston, having an office at 8 Congress Street with Hon. Robert R. Bishop. Is married; his second child, Norton, was born Jan. 7, 1882, and his third child, Marian Epes, June 4, 1884. Resides at 10 Marlboro' Street, Boston.

HENRY HOUGHTON WILLIAMS.

Died in Worcester, Mass., June 20, 1876.

See Secretary's Report No. 2 (1877), pp. 44, 45.

CHARLES FRANCIS WITHINGTON.

Writes as follows: "In the summer of 1880, was elected a Fellow of the Massachusetts Medical Society; received the degree of M.D. in 1881, at the expiration of his term of service as house physician at the Boston City Hospital; during the following year remained at the hospital as assistant to the superintendent, when his duties were those of admitting physician; in July, 1882, left the hospital after a continuous residence of twenty-six months, and in the middle of August settled in Roxbury. At this time became connected with the editorial staff of the 'Boston Medical and Surgical Journal,' which position he has held ever since. May 14, 1883, was elected one of the trustees of the Fellowes Athenæum of Roxbury." Sept. 20, 1883, was married in Roxbury to Georgiana Bowen; has two children, Sidney and Robert, born June 7, 1884. Office and residence at 255 Warren Street, Roxbury, Mass.

SAMUEL EDWIN WYMAN.

Writes as follows : “ After finishing my course of study in the Harvard Medical School in June, 1878, I received an appointment at the Boston City Hospital, where I served for eighteen months in the department devoted to the treatment of diseases of the nervous and renal systems. Early in Jan. 1880, went abroad for medical study, dividing my time between the University of Heidelberg and Vienna, and returned home the last of July, 1880. Nov. 18, 1880, was married in Cambridge, Mass., to Annie Goodale Gooch, daughter of Joshua G. Gooch, Esq. In Dec. 1880, settled in Cambridge at the residence of my father-in-law to practise my profession. The only appointments received have been those of secretary of the Cambridge Medical Improvement Society (Sept. 1883), and reporter of the Middlesex South District Medical Society (April, 1884), both of which I now hold. An article on ‘ Epidemic Croupous Pneumonia ’ was written by me for the ‘ Boston Medical and Surgical Journal ’ of Dec. 15, 1881.” Office and residence at 1 Putnam Avenue, Cambridge, Mass.

CLASSMATES NOT GRADUATED WITH US.

JULIUS KENRICK ADAMS.

Died in Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 11, 1871.

See Secretary's Report No. 2 (1877), p. 47.

CLARENCE ALMY, the son of *Benjamin Rathbone and Emily Mandeville (Cummings) Almy, was born in Barrington, R.I., Aug. 15, 1852.

Amongst the non-graduate members of our Class, few were better known or better liked than Clarence Almy. He had a genial nature, which won him friends wherever he went.

His family removed to New Bedford when he was a child. He was fitted for college at the Friends' Academy in that city, and entered the Class in July, 1870, and remained until the close of our junior year, when he left Cambridge to engage in business; he located in New York city, where he continued, almost without interruption, in the dry-goods commission business, to within a short time of his death. He was married at St. Mark's Church in Philadelphia, March 31, 1880, by the Rev. E. A. Hoffman, D.D., of New York, to Anna Kirtley Bowen, daughter of William E. and Elizabeth Bowen, of Philadelphia, and was engaged in business in that city a few months.

He had been out of health for two or three years, and he knew that sooner or later his disease would terminate fatally; but he fought it manfully as long as he could. In the December previous to his death, he was compelled to give up business altogether, and he returned to his home in Orange, N.J. He continued to grow weaker, until it became evident that something in the nature of a change of climate was necessary.

During the latter part of his life he developed a great taste for simple, outdoor amusements. He never tired of working in his garden; every morning in the summer would find him busy with his plants and his pets an hour before breakfast, though he had to make an early start for the city. After giving up business, he began to feel that if he could live more out of doors it might materially prolong his life. Acting upon this idea, he moved to White Sulphur Springs, Va., where he thought of buying a place and going into farming; the change at first seemed to be of benefit, and he became quite hopeful; but he was taken down, before he had matured any plans, with a sudden and severe attack which proved fatal, notwithstanding all the careful attention of a devoted, loving wife. He died at White Sulphur Springs, July 6, 1883, of Bright's disease.

It is a painful duty to record the death of our friends; doubly so when they are taken from us, as Almy was, at the commencement of a prosperous career, at a time when the future seems so bright. He had passed the trials and annoyances of the first few years in business. We all know what the struggle is. He was beginning to enjoy the fruit of his work. Although he did not finish the college course with us, he never lost interest in his former classmates and in old '74; he always felt that he was one of us, and his college friendships never had to give way to those formed later in life among his business associates. A widow and mother are left to mourn his loss. We can extend to them our full sympathy in their great affliction.

C. S. P.

EMIL WASHINGTON KRACKOWIZER.

Writes as follows: "The last thing chronicled in my curriculum vite of 1880 is the date of my marriage. Well, on our wedding trip I took in the 'Quincy Schools,' then on the point of achieving their regeneration under the master-hand of Colonel Parker. This visit quickly brought to a head a tendency that had long been gathering momentum among my ideals, and after conducting a number of classes in German and French with animating success, I threw 'physiek' to the 'Philistines' for good and all, and have been teaching ever since with growing enthusiasm and success at the Elmira Public High School, and as private tutor; but the town was too conservative in all its tendencies for me, so I started out at last on a Western reconnoissance last February; and after running out as far as St. Louis, finally brought up at Col. Parker's Normal School in Normal Park (a suburb of Chicago). Here I shall remain at least one year, teaching at present 'Form' (Geometry) and 'Number' (Arithmetic). At the Summer Institute shall have charge of department of Modern Languages, and next year shall teach German. If in our next 'Quinquennial' I fail to announce myself as superintendent of schools in some progressive Western city, please turn to the obituary notices, and remember, 'De mortuis.' Have kept on squibbing for the press, and 'T.S.' will do the two Chicago Conventions for the 'Elmira Telegram,' which prints an edition of 90,000 copies, and be it not forgotten [Fact]." Is married; has two children: Ernst, born April 14, 1881, and Emilie Aimée-Lee, born Aug. 26, 1883.

CHAUNCEY EDWARD LOW.

Has been since Oct. 1, 1873, in the house of A. A. Low & Bros., East India merchants, at 31 Burling Slip, New York city. Is married;

CHARLES AUSTIN MACKINTOSH.

Writes as follows: "Am still in the practice of law in Dedham, and at 40 State Street, Boston. Am not now in partnership, legal or matrimonial. Represented the First Norfolk District in the General Court in the year 1883, and as a candidate for re-election in the fall of that year was buried under an adverse majority of five." Resides at Dedham, Mass.

FRANCIS HENRY MATTHEWS.

Has continued to be engaged in the wool business in Boston, and since July 1, 1881, when the firm of Matthews & Crooker was dissolved, has been in business on his own account. Resides at 198 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston.

GEORGE FRANK MERRILL.

Is still practising medicine in Cambridge, Somerset County, Me. Is married and has one child.

OTIS OSGOOD ORDWAY.

Continued as pastor of the First Baptist Church in Nobleboro', Me., until April, 1881; was pastor of the Baptist Church at Cooper's Mills, Me., from May, 1881, to Jan. 1884. Has since resided in Ipswich, Mass. Received the degree of A.M. at Brown University at last Commencement. Was clerk of the Damariscotta Baptist Association for five years, and in Sept. 1880, preached the annual sermon before that body. Has corresponded with several papers, and contributed occasional articles.

EDMUND QUINCY SEWALL OSGOOD.

Writes from Plymouth, Mass., as follows: "In the spring of 1881 my parish gave me a leave of absence for fifteen months, more than a year of which I spent in Europe as the companion and tutor of a young gentleman. Oct. 1, 1882, I recommenced my duties as pastor of the First Parish in this place, a charge I still maintain. June 21, 1880, Ethel Lewis was born, and Sept. 10, 1883, Ronald Sewall."

CHARLES EDWARD PERKINS, the son of *Henry Kirke White and Elvira (Johnson) Perkins, was born in Hallowell, Me., April 26, 1851; was fitted for college at the Boston Latin School, and in July, 1869, was admitted to the class of 1873, with which he remained for a few months, but was obliged, on account of ill-health, to give up temporarily his studies, and in October, 1870, joined our class. His ill-health continuing, he took up his connection with us at the end of the first term of the Freshman year. He continued to reside for some years in Cambridge, and then removed to Somerville, Mass., where he resided, at his father's house until he died, of consumption, Oct. 26, 1883.

The Class Secretary is not able to give further information concerning C. E. Perkins, though he has made efforts to obtain such information by writing to his brother W. M. Perkins, who graduated with us, but who, from his refusal to answer all communications, apparently takes no interest in class matters.

BENJAMIN CALVIN REED.

No definite information concerning him since he left the class at the end of Sophomore year can be given by the Class Secretary. Was said to be superintendent of a shoe factory in Brockton, Mass., in 1883, but the class circular recently sent to him at that place has been returned not delivered. (Has never made a report.)

WALDO REED.

Continued to practise law in Fall River, Mass., until Nov. 1881, when, "from reasons of health, moved to Texas; bought a ranch at Medina, Bandera County in that State, and has since been engaged in stock raising and farming. In May, 1883, was admitted to the bar of Texas. I have been roughing it on the frontier for nearly three years among the cowboys, and find this is the place to get up in the world, if a man will only be assiduous and stick to a bucking mustang." Is married.

DAVID STUBERT STEPHENS.

Continued as Professor of Mental Science and Logic in Adrian College, Mich., until June 21, 1882, when he was elected president of that college, which position he has since retained. In May, 1884, published three pamphlets, entitled "Views of the Reformers, No. 1," "Views of the Reformers, No. 2," and "Defence of the Views of the Founders, No. 3 ;" is author of a number of articles in the April and May, 1884, numbers of the "Methodist Protestant Magazine," published in Baltimore, Md. ; was a member of the Methodist Protestant General Convention at Baltimore in May, 1884. Is married and has two children : Stubert, born March 20, 1880, and Charles Emerson, born in March, 1883.

EUGENE FRANCIS WARNER.

Writes as follows : "Resides in Coventry, R.I., and has his office at 45 Westminster Street in the city of Providence, R.I., where he has followed the general practice of the law for the past seven years. Has been a member of the Rhode Island General Assembly, and for the fifth time has just (May, 1884) been re-elected clerk of the Rhode Island Senate. Was a delegate to the Republican National Convention at Chicago the present year."

JOSEPH WARREN WARREN.

The card mailed to every member of the class under date of May 19, 1882, though giving painful information concerning him, was sent after deliberation, and proved to be fully justified. It is not thought advisable to make any further mention of his late career, which is known to so many of the class.

HENRY TODD WASHBURN.

Continued in business in Boston with Taylor, Thomas & Co., and is now with their successors, Bradford, Thomas & Co., importers and jobbers of dry goods, at 32 Bedford Street, Boston. Resides at 352 Columbus Avenue, Boston.

CHARLES HORACE WATSON.

Died in Ashtabula, O., Dec. 17, 1876.

See Secretary's Report No. 2 (1877), pp. 55, 56.

DAVID WATTS.

Writes as follows: "Am still at the same old business, viz., pig iron, having with two or three others leased a blast furnace near here, which we have been running since Jan. 1, 1881. Still retain my connection with the Harrisburg Nail Works. Two more children, Marian Bastedo, born June 30, 1881, and David, born Feb. 17, 1883." Resides at Harrisburg, Penn.

HUGH LAWRENCE WHITE.

Has continued in the lumber business in Williamsport, Pa., with the firm of White, Lentz & White, and is also carrying on business on his own account, having his lumber yard at DuBois City, Pa. Served for two terms as a member of the Council of Williamsport, and in April, 1882, accepted the Democratic nomination for mayor of the city, but was defeated by a small majority. In May, 1880, enlisted in Co. G, 12th Regt. N.G. of Pennsylvania, and in Dec. 1881, was elected major of the regiment, resigning his commission the next year. Is married; his fourth child, Euphemia DuBois, was born March 24, 1882, but died Aug. 11, 1882. Resides at 163 West Fourth Street, Williamsport, Pa.

PERRY PENTZ WILLIAMS.

Writes as follows: "I reside at Morris Dock, New York city, and am a freight broker, doing business in the New York Produce Exchange Building, at No. 4 Broadway, with A. B. Terhune, Esq., under the firm name of Williams & Terhune." Oct. 12, 1881, was married in Fordham, N.Y., to Maria Lefferts Camp.

LINCOLN DEWEY WRIGHT, the son of Timothy and Joanna Hall (Smith) Wright, was born in Chicago, Ill., Feb. 25, 1853.

The early years of his life were passed at Winetka, Ill., where he was prepared for college by Miss E. J. Leonard. He was admitted to the class in 1870, at the July examinations; he remained with us until near the close of the Sophomore year, when, on account of the business reverses of his father, he took up his connections with the class and college. He went immediately to Chicago and studied art there, establishing himself subsequently as an artist in that city. His studio was at 17 Portland Block.

Under date of May 14, 1880, he wrote to the Class Secretary from San Francisco, Cal., as follows: "I left Chicago for Virginia City, Nev., March 16, 1878; practised my profession in that place for six months, and spent the following winter at the State capital at Carson, holding the position of Chief Clerk of Committees of the Nevada Senate (Repub.). In April, 1879, I went to Sutro, and during the building of the sub-drain was storekeeper for the Sutro Tunnel Company. July 18, 1879, I went to California, and soon afterwards joined the sand-lot anti-railroad party, organized by Charles DeYoung. Early in the following August, I entered on a campaign through the northern part of the State, stumping some fifteen counties. Upon the failure of the party at the election in September, I obtained temporary work in the local department of the 'San Francisco Chronicle.' I wrote several articles for that paper to call the attention of the public to the weak condition and obsolete character of the harbor defences, with statistics concerning ordnance, &c. Dec. 1, 1879, I accepted an offer of a clerkship in the Palace Hotel in San Francisco, where I have since remained." In January, 1881, he gave up his position at the Palace Hotel, and left San Francisco to visit his family and friends in the East, and intended to settle again amongst them. He was taken sick in St. Louis, Mo., and died in that city May 4, 1881, of meningitis, after a short illness.

Though Wright was with us but two years, we well remember him as a bright and cheerful companion and friend. He always maintained his interest in the class, and in his communications to the Class Secretary he expressed the hope that he might be able to meet his old college friends at some of the Class reunions. His remarkable talent for drawing was early made known to us by his "All Afloat in the Yard," which portrayed with lifelike accuracy the faces of several members of the faculty, and was a very forcible argument for plank walks in the college yard. This talent, as before said, he cultivated after leaving us, and his success in painting and modelling was great; he also did some excellent work in etching and drawing, and it is a source of much regret that circumstances did not permit him to continue in his profession. But he was obliged to support himself, and this he did with great credit, though it was accompanied with many trials and hardships, which he battled against manfully. To his family he was devoted, and to them, so sorrowed by his sad and painful death, we may be allowed to express our sincere sympathy.

DANIEL BECHTEL YOUNG.

Has continued to practise law in Chicago, Ill., and now is believed to have his office at 724 Milwaukee Avenue in that city. (No report since 1877.)

CLASS FUND.

The subscriptions to the Class Fund have been as follows: —

1 subscription of	$300 00	$300 00
4	“	200 00	800 00
3	“	150 00	450 00
32	“	100 00	3200 00

132			$8605 00
Deduct on account of death of subscribers . .			65 00
			<hr/>
			$8540 00

These subscriptions were payable in five yearly instalments, the last instalment being due six years ago. The amounts severally received and unpaid of the several instalments are as follows: —

	Amount received.	Amount due and unpaid.
First instalment	$1706 00	$15 00
Second “	1681 00	40 00
Third “	1636 00	65 00

	$8175 00	$365 00
Single subscriptions (four)	35 00
Total received from subscriptions	$8210 00

It will be seen from the above that there are only 132 subscribers to this fund, of which eight are temporary members. Although nearly 97% of the amount subscribed has been paid, a large amount is still due, and should be paid as soon as it can be done without embarrassment.

As was stated in the report of 1880, the Class Secretary at that time held for the benefit of the class, five \$1000 $4\frac{1}{2}\%$ United States registered bonds, two \$500 4% United States coupon bonds, and one \$1000 $4\frac{1}{2}\%$ Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway Railroad bond, which, with a deposit of \$429.46 in the Home Savings Bank of Boston, and the balance of \$577.17 then on hand, constituted the assets of the class. The deposit in the Home Savings Bank was withdrawn in full in the fall of 1880, and since then a \$500 7% Detroit, Lansing & Northern Railroad bond has been purchased. This bond, with the other bonds above mentioned, are the securities now owned by the class. The statement of this fund at the end of this report (p. 71) will give further detailed information as to receipts and expenditures.

This fund, also sometimes called the “College Fund,” is a fund raised by the several classes to assist in defraying the general expenses of the college. There has been paid over to the Committee of the Alumni having charge of the fund, in behalf of the class, the sum of $1039, as appears more fully from the statement at the end of this report. No appeal has been made of late for further subscriptions; but if such an appeal be made, the class will be expected to increase largely the small amount subscribed by them. In case no such appeal is made, an additional sum of money might be raised in the class, to place a stained-glass window in Memorial Hall, as has been done by many of the other classes. This matter is again brought to your attention by the Class Secretary, in the hope that interest in the college will be kept alive, and that we may not be found wanting in a proper appreciation of the benefits bestowed on us by the college.

RECORD OF MEETINGS SINCE LAST REPORT.

TRIENNIAL DINNER, June 29, 1880.

The second triennial dinner took place in the large dining-room in Young's Hotel in Boston, on the evening of June 29, 1880. Goodwin presided. Seventy-six were present. The usual informal speeches and songs followed the repast, and an original poem, written by W. R. Richards, was read by him, and its many clever hits were fully appreciated. On motion of Green, it was voted that the poem be printed at the expense of the class, and that the Class Secretary send a copy of the same to each member of the class.

ELEVENTH MEETING, June 30, 1880.

This was the annual Commencement meeting, and was held in Cambridge at Holworthy 4. Called to order at 12 M.

The Class Secretary formally presented his third printed report, which was accepted.

After some discussion, the following suggestions were favorably acted upon by the meeting: (1) That the class dine at the expense of the Class Fund in two years, and again in 1884, when further action will be taken as to how frequently the Class Dinners, after that time, are to be had. (2) That the next printed report of the Class Secretary be published in 1884, and thereafter every five years. (3) That the system of holding special meetings on the death of classmates be abolished, and that hereafter the following plan be adopted: Upon receiving information of the death of a classmate, the Class Secretary shall at once notify each member of such death, shall select a committee of three to prepare suitable resolutions to be presented to the class at the next Commencement meeting, and shall send copies of such resolutions, when adopted, to each member of the class. The Class Secretary shall also request some intimate friend of the deceased to prepare an obituary notice for publication in the succeeding printed report. In order promptly to carry out the last of the above suggestions, the Class Secretary impressed upon the meeting the importance and necessity of communicating to him any knowledge or information as to the death of any classmate as soon as such knowledge or information was obtained.

TWELFTH MEETING, June 29, 1881.

This was the annual Commencement meeting, and was held in Cambridge at Holworthy 4. Called to order at 12 M.

The Class Secretary presented a written statement as to the finances of the class, which was read and accepted.

Resolutions to the memory of Arthur Clifford, who died Feb. 26, 1881, were presented by Peters in behalf of the committee consisting of Peters, Jones and

L. C. Clark, and similar resolutions to the memory of Archibald Dick Thomas, who died March 25, 1881, were presented by Mason in behalf of the committee consisting of Brainerd, Mason and W. H. Baker. Both sets of resolutions* were adopted by the meeting, and when printed are to be sent by the Class Secretary to the families of the deceased and to each member of the class.

CLASS DINNER, June 27, 1882.

In accordance with the vote of the class at the Commencement meeting, June 30, 1880, a class dinner was had at Young's Hotel in Boston, on the evening of June 27, 1882. Sixty-two members were present. The post-prandial exercises were of an informal nature, and the dinner was pronounced a great success. The unwillingness or modesty of those from whom speeches were expected, prevented the carrying out of the previously arranged programme.

THIRTEENTH MEETING, June 28, 1882.

This was the annual Commencement meeting, and was held in Cambridge at Holworthy 4. Called to order at 12 M.

The written statement of the finances of the class, presented by the Class Secretary, was read and accepted.

Resolutions to the memory of James Edward Ditson, who died Aug. 7, 1881, were presented by Babcock in behalf of the committee consisting of Riddle, Pickering and Babcock; and similar resolutions to the memory of Eugene Usher Mitchell, who died Aug. 29, 1881, were presented by C. W. Stone in behalf of the committee consisting of W. L. Morse, Faulkner and C. W. Stone. Both sets of resolutions* were adopted by the meeting, and as soon as printed are to be forwarded to the families of the deceased and to each member of the class.

FOURTEENTH MEETING, June 27, 1883.

This was the annual Commencement meeting, and was held in Cambridge at Holworthy 1. Called to order at 12 M.

The report of the Class Secretary as to the finances of the class was then read by him, and a committee consisting of Blaney, Wigglesworth and E. P. Stone was appointed to examine the books and accounts of the Class Secretary, with particular reference to the period since the last examination, June 15, 1880, to approve the same if found correct, and to report their action at the class meeting on Commencement day next year.

The Class Secretary in a few remarks expressed his gratitude and appreciation of the action of the class in presenting him with the elegant silver soup tureen, ladle and salvers, on the recent occasion of his marriage.

Adjourned.

GEORGE P. SANGER, Jr., Secretary.

* It is not deemed necessary to print these resolutions in this report. They are recorded in the Class Book.
